Units in Structure

Table 2-10 displays the number of units in structures for Burnett County and its communities in 2000. The majority of housing units in the county are one-unit detached structures. The various forms of multi-family and duplexes are the second most common type of structure in the county, and mobile homes represent 9.5% of the total housing units. Figure 2-6 details the units in structure for the county based on percentage of total housing units.
