This workshop is a continuation of addressing each of the nine comprehensive plan elements in your comprehensive plan.

We continue our “path down the element road” by looking at the next element of AGRICULTURE, NATURAL AND CULTURAL RESOURCES. This element is defined as a compilation of objectives, policies, goals, maps and programs undertaken by the local government unit for the conservation and promotion of the effective management of natural and cultural resources.

The ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT element is to promote stabilization, expansion, and retention of the economic base.

In the LAND USE element, we will look at land use issues and how communities can design planning strategies that will take into effect growth, development while preserving quality of life.

Lastly, in order to facilitate the development of long-term goals, policies and projects within the comprehensive plan, the INTERGOVERNMENTAL COOPERATION element will highlight the need to have a working relationship with neighboring jurisdictions.
